Dear Billie

I have written to Annie to come home and of course this involves your coming. I presume you will not hesitate a moment about this. I want Annie to have your society and I want you to study and read together, and ride and walk together, and at any rate you could not stay alone. If you can pack your things and have Henry take them down to the cars, very well if not, say so and Papa will try to come down, tho it is very difficult for him to leave. I think it is not worth while to send any thing more down so any clothes I mean.

shall not do so. Of course it is not necessary that you should hurry home in a day but I see nothing to be gained by putting off. After all it ^{ought} ~~is~~ ^{not} to be unendurable to come home. Think what it would be if you had no home to go to.

If Mrs. Sill has no use for the room you use as a kitchen you can stand all your house keeping apparatus in there Your clothes of course you will need and must pack and have Henry take down to be sent up. Any provisions you have on hand pass over to Mrs. Sill. Abner.
